

YOUR NEW OPEN SPACE IS READY

The new open space adds to the 22.5 hectares of open space added by the Caulfield to Dandenong project

We're removing 85 level crossings – with 55 already gone for good. The level crossings at Koornang and Grange roads in Carnegie were removed in February 2018 as part of the Caulfield to Dandenong Level Crossing Removal Project.

Works are now complete on the new open spaces in Carnegie.

Shaped by feedback from the local community, the new spaces include a children's playground and recreation facilities.

The new spaces now offer families, sport enthusiasts and people of all ages an opportunity to stay active.

We heard from the community

- 242 surveys complete
- 685 comments in total
- 76 door knocks in the local area

New open space features

GIRDWOOD AVENUE

The Girdwood Avenue half court features the top voted colour swatch and line markings.

A multipurpose space for all

You asked for more facilities that are inclusive to the senior residents in the area. We listened and installed combined activity equipment designed to improve strength, balance, functional movement, joint range and mobility.

People of all ages can have a go at using the balance stool, core twister, balancing bridge and net obstacle.

The space connects to existing pedestrian and bike paths, creating safer access to surrounding businesses and better connections to Carnegie Station.

WOORAYL STREET RESERVE

Woorayl Street Reserve is now home to a new children's playground. During community consultation, we asked you to vote for which playground equipment to include.

We listened and have installed the top voted equipment including a swing set, treehouse with a double slide, merry-go-round and seesaw.

In addition, we've planted shrubs and bushes to protect the red gum trees.

Additional facilities installed include bins, seating and a picnic table.

We completed these spaces in four months.

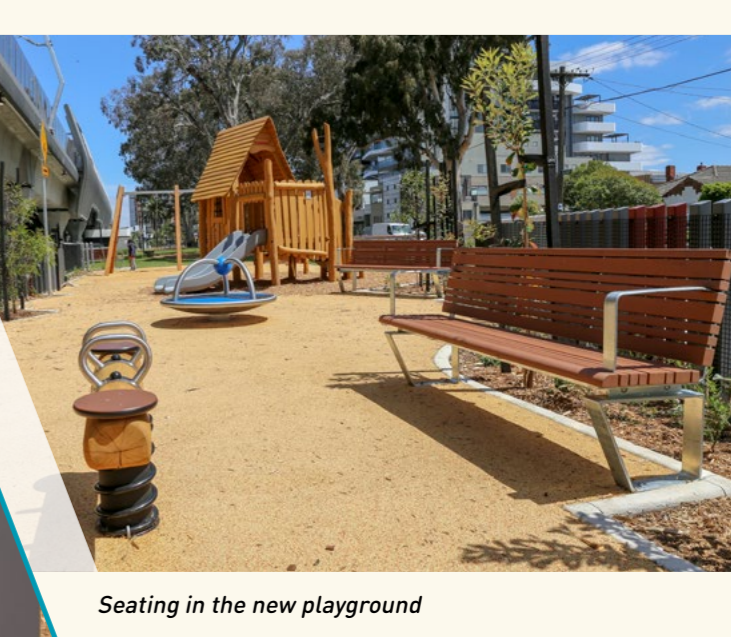

The innovative seniors exercise equipment complements other exercise stations along the Djerring Trail

Additional facilities installed include bike hoops, seating, a picnic table and bins

A swing set was the highest voted play equipment during consultation

Planting at the base of the red gums helps to protect the tree roots

EGAN STREET

The 27 new car spaces on Egan Street are located at the southern end of the street and will service businesses along Egan Street and Koornang Road.

Thank you

On behalf of the Carnegie Open Space project team, we would like to thank the local community for their patience during construction.
