Major works on the Mordialloc level crossing removal project complete

Mordialloc is now boom gate free, the Station Street level crossing in Aspendale is gone for good and a new elevated Mordialloc Station sits at the heart of a revitalised precinct.

We're making the Frankston Line level crossing free by 2033, transforming the way locals live, work and travel.

Over the past few months, our team has been working hard to put the finishing touches on the project. The boom gates are gone at McDonald Street and Station Street, Mordialloc, and Station Street, Aspendale.

We've also:

- built a new premium Mordialloc Station
- improved road, walking and cycling connections across Mordialloc and Aspendale
- transformed the area with new public spaces and landscaping that celebrate the local area.

The McDonald Street, Mordialloc and Station Street, Aspendale level crossings were the 90th and 91st level crossings removed across Melbourne since 2015.

Major construction on the project is now complete. You may still see us in the area for more finishing touches.

The new Mordialloc Station opened and two more level crossings were removed at McDonald Street, Mordialloc and Station Street, Aspendale in May

Your new Mordialloc Station

A new elevated premium station sits in the heart of Mordialloc, featuring modern facilities, all-abilities access, improved lighting, public spaces, and enhanced landscaping.

The new station features entrances at both ends of the precinct for easier and more convenient access, along with additional bike storage and a new walking and cycling path connecting the station to local shops and the wider area.

Transforming spaces in Mordialloc and Aspendale

We're creating new green spaces for the community to enjoy in Mordialloc and Aspendale. This includes new garden beds, open spaces, and habitats for native wildlife.

Aspendale's new interpretive trail

In partnership with Bunurong Land Council Aboriginal Corporation, the Registered Aboriginal Party encompassing the project area, we've created an interpretive trail throughout Groves Reserve. The interpretive trail gives visitors a place to learn about Bunurong culture, history and ecological knowledge.

Thank you Mordialloc

Thank you to residents, traders, commuters, schools, community groups and visitors to the area for your patience and support throughout construction.

Thank you also to everyone who attended information sessions, pop-up events, and walking tours.

Thanks for supporting your local traders

Thank you for continuing to support local businesses throughout construction. Whether it was grabbing your morning coffee, shopping locally or dining with family and friends, your support helped Mordialloc traders continue to make Mordialloc such a vibrant place to live, work and visit.

Community Celebration

Thank you to everyone who attended our community celebration on Saturday 3 October.

The event brought the community together to celebrate the end of major works and the new Mordialloc station precinct.

The day included lots of fun and family-friendly activities, beginning with a Welcome to Country in the station forecourt.

Thank you again for your patience throughout construction of this important project.
