

New Greensborough Station taking shape

HURSTBRIDGE LINE DUPLICATION UPDATE

MARCH
2023

Major construction blitz New Greensborough and Montmorency stations open soon

The second stage of the Hurstbridge Line Duplication will deliver further improvements, including more train services, less crowding on peak trains and better connections to public transport in Melbourne's north east.

What we are doing

Our major construction blitz will start in mid-March as our crews work around the clock along the rail corridor at Greensborough,

Montmorency, Diamond Creek and Wattle Glen to deliver a range of crucial works. These works include getting your new stations up and running at Greensborough and Montmorency, and upgrading Diamond Creek Station.

As part of this construction blitz, we will be installing two kilometres of track duplication between Greensborough and Montmorency stations and one and a half kilometres between Diamond Creek and Wattle Glen stations. We will also begin works on stage one of your new shared walking and cycling path between Greensborough and Montmorency.

What to expect after the major construction blitz

Trains will be running along the new duplicated track and stopping at the new stations soon.

We will continue with works after the major construction blitz to finish the project. This includes continuing construction of the shared walking and cycling path, landscaping, finishing works and planting new greenery in the station precincts and along the rail corridor.
